RSV Begins Construction on New Beaches Restaurant at the Portland Airport

VANCOUVER, Wash. – Beaches, a long-time favorite restaurant of southwest Washington residents, will soon be opening a new location just across the Columbia River at the Portland International Airport. And the construction company selected to do the remodeling at the new location is another well-established and respected Vancouver, Wash., company, RSV Building Solutions.

“We selected the RSV team because of their commitment to quality, the personal interest they take in the success of the project, and their community involvement.” said Beaches Owner Mark Mathias. “They’re pros who not only listen, but also provide insight and expertise to ensure that the final product matches our vision.”

In addition to Beaches, RSV has worked for such restaurant clients as The Holland (owners and operators of Burgerville), Costa Vida Fresh Mexican Grill, Le Hana Japanese Grill, Boston’s Gourmet Pizza and Pizza Schmizza, to name a few.

The new Beaches Restaurant will take over the space previously occupied by the Rose City Café and Pendleton, which will be completely remodeled to reflect a tropical theme including the use of bamboo, weathered woods, wood pilings, rustic metal and a sandy beach scene complete with a full size hot rod. The 6,800-plus-square-foot space will have seating for 174 guests, dedicated space for take-out orders and a retail sales area for Beaches branded products.

“We are delighted to have the opportunity to work for Mark Mathias and the strong and respected Beaches brand,” said RSV President Ron Frederiksen. “For years, Mark and I have worked together on community projects and now it’s fun to be able to do a project together.”

Other members of the design-build team include Architects Associative, Bargreen-Ellingson, DelStar Electric and Jason Prouty of Garage 31 Custom Painting. Construction is slated to begin this month and is anticipated to be completed in just eight weeks.
