RSV Builds First “Hot Yoga” Studio in Hazel Dell Area

VANCOUVER, Wash. – RSV Building Solutions, a Vancouver-based commercial construction company that specializes in new construction, remodeling, maintenance, and tenant improvements, has completed a studio for Fusion Fitness and Nutrition off of 78th Street in Vancouver.

“We’re excited to be working again with Dr. Aadland for Fusion Fitness and Nutrition, the first hot yoga studio in the Hazel Dell area,” said Ron Frederiksen, president of RSV Building Solutions. “The Aadlands are fantastic people who are well respected within the local business community and it is a delight to get the opportunity to work with them.”

The 3,400-square-foot studio, which broke ground in April, also includes nutritional counseling offices, massage and aesthetician areas, and a snack bar that will offer healthy options for studio visitors.

The décor features shades of dark red as well as bamboo accents and concrete floors. The one-story studio reflects a warm, modern and welcoming ambiance and is scheduled for completion in June.

“I was so impressed with the results of previous Aadland projects, keeping our partnership with RSV to add the studio was a no-brainer,” said Dr. Kristine Aadland. “RSV always comes through with a team of experts that flawlessly bring my visions to life while keeping costs down and staying consistently on schedule.”

The partners involved in these projects were Architects Associative, Ancil Heating & Cooling, Stewart Plumbing, and Schiller & Vroman for painting.

This is RSV’s second project for The Aadland Building located at 2702 NE 78th St. The building is also host to Aadland Dental, another previous RSV project.
